

Innopol Series

Science down to earth

The objective of this InnoPool project is to create a platform with the aim to temporarily bring science down to earth, to reflect on and to develop counter-strategies for new forms of stress and pressure that inevitably affect our ability, as researchers, teachers and project or group managers, to maintain diverse and caring work environments. The InnoPool project is set up as a series of monthly lunch meetings, articulated around five topics.

Programme

17 March, 12:15 – 13:15 h (Y25 H92)

Gender stereotypes and career development – lunch talk with Susanne Matuschek organized by Flurina Wartmann & Gwendolyn Leysinger-Vieli

11 April, 12:15 – 13:45 h (Dozierendenfoyer Y22 G74)

Slow Science – lunch discussion organized by Miriam Wenner & Karin Schwiter

9 May, 12:15 – 13:45 h (Y25 H79)

When metrics matter organized by Arzu Coltekin & Muriel Cote

19 September, 12:15 – 13:45 h (room tba)

Workplace Stress and Academia organized by Sunčana Laketa & Veruska Muccione

31 October, 12:15 – 13:45 h (room tba)

Supervision and Leadership – interactive performance with Forum Theater organized by Alice Kern, Itta Bauer & Eva Buff-Keller

24 November, 18:00 – 20:00 h (Hamam-Café, Mühlebachstrasse 157)

Concluding session: Landscapes of Tranquility and Inspiration organized by Itta Bauer & Sunčana Laketa

All members of GIUZ are welcome to join!